PUBLISHED WEEKLY AT SIERRA MADRE, LOS ANGELES COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

Sept. 14 Day For Opening City Schools

School will open in Sierra Madre on Monday, September 14, according to a decision arrived at by the board of education at a meeting last week. Miss Elizabeth Steinberger will again head the school faculty and with only a few exceptions the personnel of the teaching staff will remain the same as last year.

The only changes announced among the teachers are the appointment of Miss Catherine Reynolds who takes the place of Miss Susan Bean, and Harry Butcher who takes the place of Paul Coburn as head of the manual training department.

There will also be a change in the policy in the school nursing department. Arrangements have been made with the county health department to have a nurse visit the school for a half of each day, instead of a full day four times a week. The arrangement was made with the county health department and the nurse to be assigned to the work has not been selected.

No material increase in number of students is expected at the beginning of the fall term, although arrangements have been made for the hiring of an extra teacher if it is found that another one is necessary to take of increased attendance. The initial enrollment last year was 425 and it is thought the enrollment this year may be between that number and 450 pupils.

The faculty for the coming year will include:

Miss Elizabeth Steinberger, principal, Dorothy G. Stevens, Myrtle M. Schultz, Eva D. Moore, May S. Wood, Ruth R. Taylor, Ruth Anderson, Agnes N. McLaughlin, Mary S. Wheeler, Marie Stanley, Catherine Reynolds, Grace Lillian Wheeler, Lila B. Kendall.

Kindergarten teachers are Mary Kegley and Mildred Luckey.

Special teachers will be as follows: Mary Pfahler, music; Zayda Leonard, domestic science; Florence Lusted, art; Harry Butcher, manual training.

Observations

By G. B. M.

THE SWEET USES OF ADVERSITY

Six lawyers and two newspaper men gathered around a table may sound like a combination full of ominous possibilities. But we were just a committee, not particularly different from any number of other committees. Fortified with a good meal, we were fully prepared to concoct a solvent for whatever might be gumming up the wheels of the world's progress.

Of chief interest to me in that group was the other newspaper man, the only member I had not met before. His white hair stamped him as the oldest, while most of them were this side of 50, and I may have been at the opposite end of the age scale. I had known my fellow worker by reputation and was somewhat familiar with his writings.

As conversation developed, it became apparent why all deferred to his opinions. Literary and linguistic culture, world wide experience and sparkling good humor explain part of his charm.

Business of the evening over, as we left the table I picked up his two canes for him and he said, "Just let me hang onto your shoulder while I get on my feet." Then his effort reminded me of what I had been told about him. Both legs amputated above the knee a year or two ago; last winter an attack of flu that almost put him out; and on top of these afflictions, some associates trying to "do" him out of his interests in a business venture! It took him ten minutes to navigate on his artificial legs from the dining room to the elevator, perhaps 40 feet.

And yet, as we had been talking around the table there was not a sign to indicate that man was not as well and prosperous and happy as any of the lot. Lord, what a spirit! The kind that will not down, plus mental resources to take him outside himself, and a willingness still to do something for others.

I was rather proud to be a newspaper man in such company. And I was also mighty glad to remember that one of those lawyers had voluntarily taken up his cause to help him in his business difficulties.

Mr. and Mrs. George Halpin and Mrs. Harry Middaugh who have taken a lease on the Busy Bee Cafe will open it for business next Wednesday. The new proprietors have completely renovated and refurnished the cafe and have it in first class condition. They will specialize in home cooked foods at moderate prices with home baked pies and cakes.

SIERRA MADRE FOLK PLANNING LONG JOURNEY

George F. Roberts who has recently been very ill, is recuperating on a motor camping trip in the High Sierras, including visits to Wawona, Yosemite, Mono Lake and Lake Tahoe. Mrs. Roberts has returned from Catalina Island where she has been moving into their new East Side Terrace house at Avalon. She will join Mr. Roberts at San Francisco next week and drive with him to see the Redwood groves which are being purchased by the Save the Redwoods League in Humboldt Co. After their return to Sierra Madre Mr. and Mrs. Roberts will spend the month of September in their new Catalina home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are planning a longer vacation after the first of the year when they will sail from New York on the S.S. Orca, cruise to South America and South Africa, leaving the ship in the late spring at Southampton. They will then spend another year in travelling on the continent. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts came to Sierra Madre last year after a two-year trip around the world.

Stovall Says Writing Now Claims Time

Because of the increased demand from eastern editors and publishers for his stories, and the necessity of his giving most of his time and thought to the "writing game," Dennis H. Stovall of Sierra Madre this week offered his resignation as field executive of the Boy Scouts. He also has asked the local committee to relieve him of the duties of scoutmaster of Troop One of Sierra Madre, which place he has held in a voluntary capacity, for the past three years.

Mr. Stovall will not relinquish his interest in boys, as he writes for an audience of at least a million of them every week, through the several boys' magazines to which he constantly contributes. But he is no longer able to give so much of his time to direct leadership.

In order to cover the assignments sent him from publishers Mr. Stovall must write from three to five short stories, or as many chapters of serials, every week. During the 20 years that he has followed the business of writing he has produced some two thousand stories. He is now interested in collecting the best of these into book form. Two book manuscripts were recently completed. He has written also two photoplays, and has done considerable newspaper syndicate work.

Just now negotiations are under way, through a New York author's agent, for the sale of the British republication rights to a number of Mr. Stovall's boy tales. These are mainly red-blooded yarns of the west such as boys delight in, and which are especially popular with British lads.

Mr. Stovall, by his close, sincere contact and genuine personal interest in boys, has made himself the friend not only of all the boys of Sierra Madre but of scores of them throughout Southern California, where he has met them in camps or troop councils. He hopes to remain their friend, though he may not be able to see them as often. He will continue to make Sierra Madre his home town.

BRIEF ITEMS OF INTEREST

Mrs. C. J. Pegler is spending a ten-day vacation at Hermosa Beach visiting her mother, Mrs. S. A. Robinson.

Miss Edith Healey of Winnipeg, Man., spent several days this week visiting Mrs. Kenneth Berridge of West Highland Ave., an old school friend.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lehner, with their daughters, Miss Lillian and Miss Alfreda, of San Diego, arrived Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lehner of 550 W. Central.

Word was received from Frank Fraiberg of Fraiberg Company, jewelers, to the effect that he is now visiting his old home at Prague in Czechoslovakia. He will return to Sierra Madre about Oct. 1.

Miss Ruth Klemme entertained on Wednesday with an afternoon tea. Her guests were the chairmen of the standing committees who will be her aides in the work of the Woman's Club this year. The afternoon was spent in discussing plans for the year's work.

Quake Drive Not Coming Up to Mark

Citizens of Sierra Madre are not responding to the appeal in behalf of the Santa Barbara earthquake sufferers as it had been hoped they would, according to the committee on solicitation, of which J. N. Hawks is chairman. Some have given generously and many have given nothing to the fund. Committees are canvassing the town and when they call their work would be greatly facilitated if people would be prepared to make their donations immediately. If more convenient, contributions may be mailed or taken to the office of the Chamber of Commerce at 24 West Central. Organizations represented in the drive are the Woman's Club, American Legion, Order of the Eastern Star, Bethany Church, Congregational Church, St. Rita's Church, Christian Science Church, Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion, Volunteer Fire Department, Red Cross, Parent-Teacher Association, Firemen's Club and Chamber of Commerce.

It is eight weeks since the quake and some have been lulled into the belief that all is well in Santa Barbara. Those who have not been there cannot realize the conditions that prevail.

The citizens of Santa Barbara are doing heroic work themselves and now they need help. It is needed now. Temporary roofs must be put over the schools and hospitals and many other things done so that the daily needs and the humanitarian work of the community may be carried on.

For the rest of California to fail Santa Barbara at this critical time a second disaster worse than the first would be imposed upon that city. With other communities in the state Sierra Madre should bear the burden of helping Santa Barbara to get back on her feet.

City Starts New County Health Plan

Sierra Madre is now a part of the division of the county health department which has headquarters in Monrovia, according to Dr. Gilbert S. Bovard, who has received notice that the county has now formally taken over the work which he had been doing as city health officer. The change in policy came about as the result of investigations made by Dr. Bovard a few months ago when he took over the health department temporarily, and recommendations made by him to the city trustees.

Under the new plan the City of Sierra Madre pays the county health department $50.00 a month to look after all sanitation and health measures for the city. This service includes the regular inspection of all places where contagious diseases are likely to find a source, by a trained sanitary inspector, and the services of a physician for the purposes of diagnosing quarantinable cases when discovered by practicing physicians. It also provides for the semi-weekly inspection of the milk supply of Sierra Madre, and a close check on cesspools, trash accumulations and garbage disposal.

Another feature which Dr. Bovard points out as valuable to the city, is the use of the county laboratories for the development of cultures taken for the purpose of diagnosing contagious or infectious diseases. Under the previous arrangement it was necessary for the local health officer to send his specimens to Sacramento for the state laboratory, and in the case of a serious epidemic there was risk of grave consequences by reason of the delay before a report could be received. In case of an epidemic the new arrangement would also provide for the full time services of a health officer.

The change in the health department will not affect the status of the municipal nurse, it is announced. Mrs. R. M. Barker will continue her valuable work as before.

Miss Alice Stanley will leave on Wednesday for Kansas City and Detroit where she will spend three months visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johnson Jr., returned this week from Big Bear Lake and Balboa where they enjoyed their vacation. Mr. Johnson is employed in the city engineer's office.

Howard Lieben has returned from a month's visit at Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Lieben and the boys will not return to Sierra Madre until later in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lanterman of 74 W. Grand View Ave., are the happy parents of a fine baby boy, born on Wednesday at the Monrovia Hospital.

Post Takes In Two New Service Men

Sierra Madre Post of the American Legion held its midsummer meeting at the Park House on Wednesday evening. A. E. Jones and Ralph Odwarker were accepted for membership and welcomed into the post.

Due to press of business making it no longer possible for him to fulfill the duties of post chaplain, the resignation of Harry Middaugh was read and accepted. T. W. Neale and A. J. Cottrell were nominated for office at this meeting. Nominations will be reopened at the next meeting of the post on Sept. 23 when the election will be held.

George Norris, Henry Olsen and Victor Hill were appointed a committee to investigate the matter of uniform flag decorations for the business district and if deemed desirable to take the matter up with the local merchants.

This being the vacation season, it was decided to dispense with meetings of the post until the second Wednesday in September. Regular meetings will be resumed on the 23rd of September.

Yerxa Tells About Visit In England

London, England
Editor of Sierra Madre News,
Dear George: The Panama Canal is an everlasting monument to American energy and efficiency. People of all nations passing through its locks are impressed with the genius of the United States for organization and the business like administration of large enterprises.

The scenery around the canal is tropical in the extreme. Vegetation seems to burst from the ground with pent up energy. The problem with farmers there is not to get things to grow, but how to deal with grass, vines and quick growing plants choking his land is always a problem.

The rainfall varies from 100 to 160 inches a year, and is always a surprise to Californians. They bemoan this as a great waste of water in a country already wet.

Leaving the canal with regret, we arrived in Havana, Cuba after three days. The ship loaded with sugar, some of the passengers loaded with booze, and on the second day in port we sailed for Spain. Touching different ports in Spain and France, the ship arrived in Liverpool after 20 days.

English City Life
Liverpool is a large city and a fair sample of English life as lived in cities. The classes are very distinct, rich middle class and poor. All dress their place in life and do not look forward to any change of employment or change of social levels.

The first thing you see is a "Bobble" and a fine type of police officer he is too. The next thing a Californian notices is the absence of blue sky. Overhead is a dark, dull something, partly clouds, smoke and fog in equal parts. By diligent search one may discover a place not so dark as the rest of the canopy which indicates where the sun might be.

Perhaps by now you have reached a street corner and there you see a "pub" or public barroom. It is much the same as our old saloon only it is common practice for women to enter and drink with the same unconcern as men. Among the poor, drinking is a daily habit. The liquor tax is high so the resulting price paid for drink is out of proportion to the earnings of poor people. The drinking by both men and women is a great drain on their incomes and one of the chief causes of poverty so apparent all over the British Isles.

The Dole Problem
England has 1,300,000 people on the "dole," meaning people out of work and receiving an average of $4.50 a week from the government. This "dole" was started to help returned soldiers re-locate in industrial life. But once started it gradually spread until it now covers all unemployed. (Continued on Page 7)

A delightful afternoon of music was enjoyed Monday at the home of Mrs. J. L. Phelan on South Hermosa. Miss Ladd and Mrs. J. N. Hawks were the artists who gave so generously of their time and versatile repertoire. Miss Helen Phelan, being a music lover but unable to hear these artists elsewhere, tried hard to express her appreciation of their kindness in giving her a whole afternoon. Mrs. Cameron assisted Mrs. Phelan.

PRESIDENT OF CLUB SPEAKS NEXT TUESDAY

The next noon luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Wistaria Vine Tea Garden which has proven so popular during hot weather, on Tuesday, August 17, Mrs. E. D. Burbank, chairman for the day, has invited Miss Ruth Klemme to be the speaker.

Miss Klemme is the new president of the Woman's Club and in her talk will outline some methods by which it is possible for the two organizations to co-operate in many matters of mutual interest, with resulting benefit to the community.

City Planners Convene At El Segundo

In spite of it being the vacation month of August, accommodations at the City Planners luncheon at El Segundo on Saturday were taxed to the utmost. Interest in this very important feature of community progress is growing in a most satisfactory manner and the splendid talks on problems facing both the cities and the country were well worth the effort of attending the monthly meeting.

Those present from Sierra Madre were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lawless, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Burbank, Mrs. J. Glenwood Jones, Secretary E. T. Gruit of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. May H. Roberts of the publicity committee of the association.

Tragedy of the Beaches
Although not scheduled on the program, Mr. Saxil Tuxen, one of the nine members of the City Planning Commission of Melbourne, Australia, spoke first and gave to Southern Californians plenty to think about in his severe but wholly just criticisms of the deplorable conditions to be found at the beach resorts where the sands that should be the heritage of all the people have been turned to private use. Instead of providing a beautiful beach where city dwellers may enjoy nature in one of her finest moods, they are given only inadequate strips of sand and endless hot dog stands and roller coasters. When one thinks of the beauty of the water fronts at the European resorts where wise planning has left the sea's edges open for all to enjoy, one is sad indeed to see the prostitution of the California beach towns and to realize the vast expenditures that will be necessary in the inevitable cleaning up of the sea fronts.

Then followed Prof. Nathan F. Smith of Santa Monica, but formerly principal of the high school in Monrovia. He stressed the necessity for careful planning in the matter of tree planting, and cited the disastrous effect of selecting trees in haphazard fashion rather than with regard for the effect on the whole street or city. He paid high tribute to Riverside not only for its fine plantings but also for its preservation of trees it was found necessary to move under street widening proceedings. The regrettable practice in Southern California of cutting down trees found to be in the way of widening is not followed in Riverside except on rarest occasions, as that city is sufficiently enlightened to move her trees instead of destroying them.

Where Trees Count
A particular instance of a very fine planting of 25-year old palms that had to be removed from the street they originally adorned was cited. These palms were taken up by city employees at a cost of $50 a tree, and replanted along the main highway between Colton and Riverside where their splendid size made them a notable beautification of the roadside.

The trees and parking along the Santa Monica palisades provided grateful shade and recreation ground for many inland dwellers throughout the recent heat wave, the Planners were told, and Prof. Smith praised the wise thoughtfulness of those whose foresight made possible the present loveliness of the palisades. He urged other communities to profit by the excellent example thus set them.

Good and Bad Neighbors
Beverly Hills was cited as the city having the finest street tree planting in Southern California, and Westwood Park, on the other hand, was cited as an amazing example of regrettable subdivision planning as in its great expanse of 3,200 acres there is no visible evidence of thought given to beautifying its streets with trees.

O. F. Peasnell, assistant city engineer of El Segundo, in a brief talk on his community's plans for the future, perhaps unconsciously cited an example of what G. Gordon Whitnall proclaims should be the gospel of the planner—"Be original."

County Sewer Project
Mr. A. K. Warren, chief engineer of Los Angeles County Sanitation Districts, gave some valuable information in regard to the metropolitan district sewer now under construction. (Continued on Page two)

Hearing On Dietz Charge Draws Crowd

After listening all of Wednesday afternoon on the charges brought by City Clerk Louis Dietz against Water Superintendent Tom Henderson, the city trustees took the matter under advisement without indicating in any way what their conclusion would be. The hearing was held in the Park House and drew a crowd who filled the place to overflowing. With the exception of a few sharp interchanges between the opposing counsel and with some of the witnesses, there was nothing exciting about the proceedings to reward the spectators for their long wait.

City Attorney Frederick Baker conducted the inquiry for the trustees, while Attorney Warren Williams represented Mr. Henderson. The investigation proceeded nominally under court rules as a matter of convenience, with the trustees in the judicial capacity.

Among the witnesses who testified to various points bearing on the charges were Louis Dietz, Ed Gregg, Joseph Hogan, L. E. Steinberger, Tom Henderson, Mrs. Henderson, Norman Morrison, A. B. Thew, I. B. Goldberg, and Prentiss Buie.

Mr. Dietz produced municipal records in support of his charges as well as the testimony of various witnesses. Mr. Henderson entered a specific denial of all charges against him, and sought to prove his innocence by placing a different interpretation upon the records, as well as by introducing testimony of various witnesses. Inasmuch as this report is necessarily written before the decision of the trustees can be announced it would be inappropriate to offer any opinion of the merits of the testimony.

It is understood that since the hearing an item of three dry cells which Mr. Henderson was charged with having appropriated to his own use has been discovered by Marshal Udell in use on a telephone line to the Quarter-way House which is maintained by the city. It is expected this will be taken into consideration by the trustees in arriving at their decision.

NEW FINANCE COMPANY DOES BUSINESS HERE
On another page will be found the announcement of the People's Finance and Thrift Co., of Monrovia, which is now extending its service.

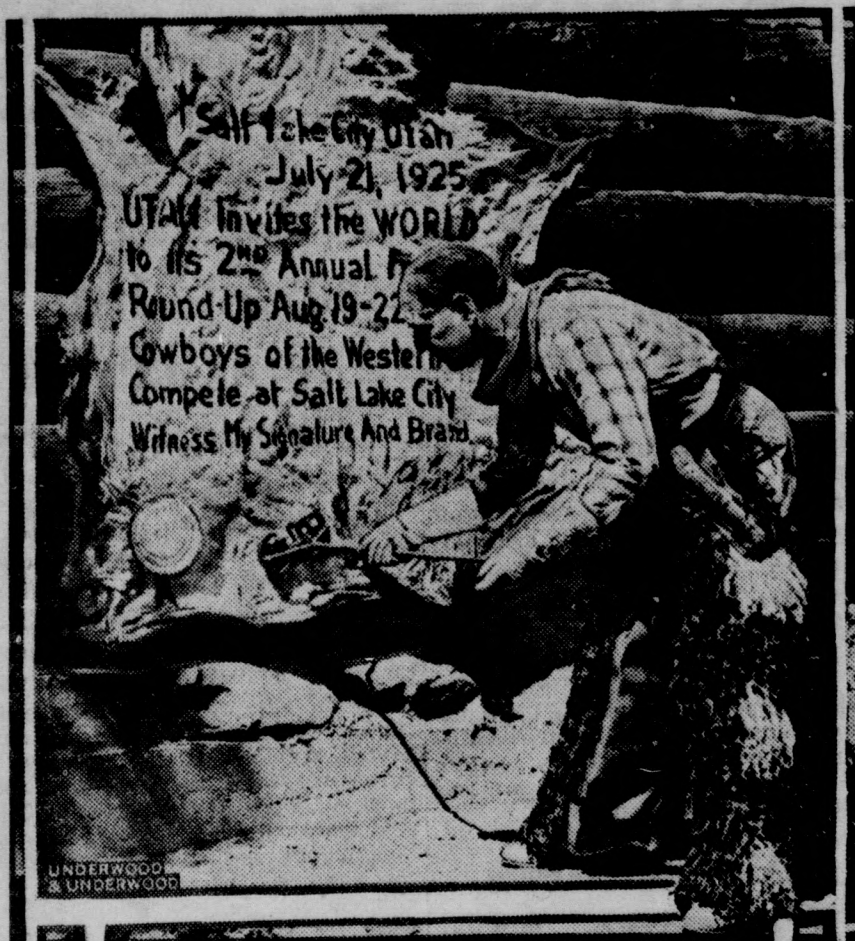

"We are offering a loan service to people who are unable to obtain credit at a regular commercial bank," says J. A. Quinn who is the general manager of the company. "Only a small number of people who are entitled to credit are able to obtain it at a regular bank because they are unable to furnish a satisfactory financial statement. The installment feature which we offer allows us to reach many people whom banks do not care to accommodate. Character and earning ability are the basis of credit. We have been of great service in assisting merchants, doctors and others in collecting long outstanding accounts. We loan our customers money to pay these bills and extend them sufficient time to take care of the obligation."

"We have also been of great assistance to people who need a small sum of money for the improvement of their property. Full particulars and all information in regard to our service may be had by writing or calling at our main office."

Find out what you want your city ought to be and then BE it! Mr. Peasnell told the Planners that El Segundo intended to cater to the types of industry which will find a specially constructed sewer system near to an outfall of special benefit. Such manufacturing as dye works and chemical plants need primarily some satisfactory method of quick disposal of their wastes, and El Segundo feels it is unusually well fitted to be advantageous for such commercial enterprises as it practically adjoins the Los Angeles outfall sewer.

Salt Lake City Invites You

A cowhide from a wild range steer, nailed to the logs of a pioneer cabin, bore one of the most appropriate and unusual documents ever made official when the state seal was affixed and Gov. George H. Dern, with a hot branding iron, signed Utah's invitation to the annual frontier roundup to be held in Salt Lake City August 19 to 22. Photograph depicts the governor branding the hide.

CAN ANYONE BEAT THIS PEACH STORY

While other cities are claiming distinction in the daily papers for the size of peaches grown on their trees, it is learned that Sierra Madre can compete with the best of them. The first of the week C. L. Drake brought a peach to the News office which measured twelve inches in circumference and weighed fourteen ounces. The peach was of the Crawford variety and grew on a tree set out about five years ago. There were about two dozen peaches on the tree this year, the rest being slightly smaller in size.

The Sierra Madre Ice Company's truck backed into the deep ditch at the corner of Baldwin and Suffolk Thursday afternoon and was not brought back into the road without considerable work on the part of the employees of the company and the garage men.

Mrs. Fanny Loveless of the Pollyanna Shop has traded her business for real estate and the store is now closed while the new owners look for a manager.

Five Great Features On Screen Bill

The ancient ideas of jazz included more complicated instruments than any "trap man" today can produce, according to Frank E. Woods of Associated Pictures who supervised the filming of "Richard, the Lion Hearted," a screen adaptation of Sir Walter Scott's "The Talisman." It comes to the Wistaria Theatre on Saturday for one day only, with Wallace Beery as the star.

Weeks of research work in preparation for screening this production established the fact that King Richard and his Crusaders took with them an unusually interesting array of musical instruments when they marched to Palestine. Reproductions of these instruments were made to order for use in the film.

Welcome Home

More than 150 men ranging from 62 to 94 years of age take part in scenes of "Welcome Home," James Cruze's current Paramount offering which comes Sunday and Monday. A page of comedy and drama out of the every day life of the American family provides the theme of this film story. Lois Wilson, Warner Baxter and Luke Cosgrove are the featured players in the cast.

Zane Grey Story

Many legends are told about the Superstition mountains of Arizona, where exterior scenes were made for "The Light of Western Stars," the Zane Grey romance of the western cattle country which will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

One of these tales is said to have originated with the Indians and concerns long-forgotten persons who ventured into the isolated regions of the mountains and never returned. But some travellers brought back stories of ghosts who inhabited the peaks and filled the night with eerie sounds.

Jack Holt, Noah Beery, Billie Dove and others of the company who camped in the recesses of the mountains where the footprints of men are strangers, laughed at the superstitious stories. They encountered no spectral inhabitants during the time they were filming scenes for the new production.

"Way Down East"

The finest production with which the name of D. W. Griffith is associated is said by many to be his "Way Down East," which will be the attraction Thursday and Friday. This great film is an adaptation of the stage success of the same name and in the cast are some members of the original organization that was seen in the play years ago. Of these are Burr McIntosh and Vivian Ogden. Others who bring distinction to the film are Lillian Gish, Richard Barthelmess, Mary Hay, Creighton Hale and a long list of other fine players.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Woehler and W. E. Sell of Gardena drove to the northern part of the state last week, returning on Monday. Dr. Woehler is now busy getting his new dental office in the Sierra Madre Hotel building into shape.

way. He said there is now $10,000,000 available for construction and that bids had already been called for. Twenty miles of local sewer lines have already been completed, and the first point of construction of the metropolitan sewer itself will be at the under crossing of the Union Pacific railroad at Anaheim Road, for which Secretary Pomeroy and others have worked so hard. Mr. Warren said a practice was being made of employing men from the districts in which the sewer is being constructed to do the work in each local area, and that whenever possible supplies are purchased with the same idea in mind, thus returning a large part of the taxes for the project in each district in the form of wages et cetera. However, in the matter of material for the job it has been found to be necessary to deviate from this a good deal as all supplies are purchased under competitive bidding.

The formation of the San Gabriel Valley sewer district was discussed. Mr. Warren said that plans for that extensive project were nearly completed. When the work is finished all the territory between Flintbridge and Covina will be served at a cost of about $4,000,000.

Lessons from Santa Barbara

When Santa Barbara suffered her recent disaster the City of Los Angeles offered the loan of any of her officials to aid in the rebuilding of the stricken city. After sufficient thought to assure herself she was getting the man who could do the most for her, she asked for C. J. S. Williamson, secretary-treasurer of the Association of City Planners. Mr. Williamson returned on Saturday merely to tell of the plans for the rebuilding of the northern city.

Mr. Williamson asked all those present to endeavor to visit Santa Barbara soon, not as tourists, but as students, in order to fix in their minds the present conditions, so they can better realize the ultimate progress.

One of the first things done after the quake was the forming of an architects' advisory commission to investigate the causes of the building destruction. This committee soon learned that it was poor construction which was responsible for the worst of the damage. Buildings and houses which were well built and stood on good foundations went through the quake almost unscathed, while those structures which showed faults of workmanship were nearly universally destroyed.

Plans Out of Chaos

Santa Barbara had made the great mistake of being without either an adequate building code or zoning law until only two weeks before the disaster. Mr. Williamson urged that all Southern Californians investigate the building codes of their towns and insist upon such laws as will demand correct construction in what is without doubt an earthquake country. He reminded the planners that observance of a law was better than mere enforcement.

Very soon after the formation of the San ta Barbara advisory committee the city council appointed an Architectural Board of Review with advisory powers. This board decided that Spanish architecture should prevail throughout the rebuilt city, and especially on the almost wholly destroyed length of State Street. Mr. Williamson was glad to report that practically all builders and owners have agreed to this suggestion, and therefore Southern California may look forward to a really distinctive city, architecturally in keeping with the traditions and climate of the country. The committee will also advise home builders and Mr. Williamson remarked that it was amazing to see what a good architect could do in one hour to a plan for a house that looked mostly like a sketch of a piano box, and beautify it at no additional cost.

Mr. Hugh Pomeroy followed Mr. Williamson in an impromptu report of a trip taken to Santa Barbara on Friday by fourteen city planning officials. The high light of his talk was the news that Santa Barbara is obtaining a strip from 200 to 1000 feet in width for a parkway road all along her sea front. If stricken Santa Barbara can do this fine thing why does Los Angeles County go on allowing its beaches to be covered with commercial enterprises? Mr. Pomeroy announced that he hoped on some not too far distant day to see all the buildings from the Speedway to the sea at Venice wiped off and a really adequate water front given that city in place of the unsightly, congested area existing at present, and added that the recently passed Mattoon bill provided for just such improvements.

The meeting then adjourned to the Los Angeles outfall sewer, a mile away, where the Planners were conducted through the screening plant and learned how adequately a great municipality can dispose of its sewage in this efficient manner. More than 30,000,000 gallons of sewage is handled daily at ElSegundo at the remarkably small cost of 3 cents per capita per year for the City of Los Angeles.

LOYALTY MARK OF WISDOM

Ford News: Monkeys in a jungle are said to show great pleasure in throwing coconuts at elephants. For the moment, it probably makes them forget that they are only monkeys.

The little man usually sits in the seat of the scornful. That is probably the reason he remains little. No man can succeed if he doesn't appreciate the value of wisdom. He cannot win the loyalty of others if he is not loyal to those above him. He only fools himself when he pretends that he is bigger than he is by jibing at everyone who is in authority.

No man should be servile, nor need he be in respecting others' attainments. On the contrary, it is always the man who has the spirit of the slave who talks disparagingly of his foreman and the others above him.

The wiser a man is the humbler you will find him.

And the greater you are, the more respect you will show for those who are greater than you.

County Makes Over 500 New Voting Places

Growth of population in Los Angeles County during the past two years has necessitated orders from the Board of Supervisors to increase the number of voting precincts from approximately 2,000 to 2,500, an increase of 25 per cent.

The reprecincting order was given in order to comply with the state law which requires that there shall not be more than 300 registered voters in each precinct. According to Supervisor Wright there are numerous precincts in the county which have nearly 1,000 voters and nearly a majority of the precincts exceed the limit.

Many of the precincts will be halved and others quartered, while new boundaries will be established in order to accommodate the people. The new arrangement will make it unnecessary for the voters to wait in line as long as they have often done in the past.

IS A PEACOCK ashamed of HIS LEGS?

If not, why, when he looks at his legs, does he always lower his tail? Medieval nature-fakers puzzled over this and other entertaining superstitions. Today we know better, and we are fast getting away from other popular superstitions, as, for instance, that there is something mysteriously "better" about "eastern" motor oils merely because they cost more and are made in the east.

Superstitions Pass—the Facts Prove Zerolene's Superiority

As a matter of fact, there is no better motor oil than Zerolene, which is produced right here on the Pacific Coast from selected western naphthenic base crude, refined by this Company's patented high-vacuum process, and submitted to 15 positive checks for quality.

Experienced Automobile Men Disregard Oil Superstition

Experienced automobile men pay no tribute to superstition—they gauge a lubricant not by price or where it comes from—but by car performance and low maintenance costs. Zerolene is not only successfully lubricating more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made;—it is used and recommended by automobile agencies and big users of such celebrated makes as Cadillac, Chrysler, Dodge, Lincoln, Packard, Pierce-Arrow, who know that true motor oil economy is not a matter of price per quart, but what the lubricant does.

Less Carbon—More Power

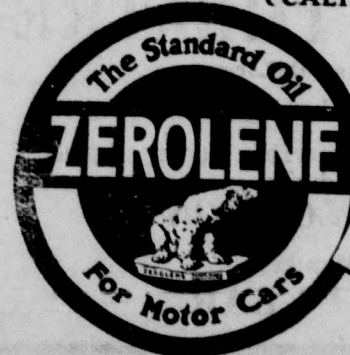

Zerolene will improve the gasoline mileage, reduce carbon removal operations and lengthen the life of your car. Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene—ask for it by name.

Get the Facts!

A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene motor oil has been collected in our booklet, "Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.

Insist on Zerolene—even if it does cost less

IF ALL HIS ENEMIES WERE DEAD

By Edgar A. Guest

How often to himself he said:
If all his enemies were dead
The world for him would glow with grace
And be for him a happy place.

"If all his enemies were dead,
He'd rest untroubled in his bed!"
Oh, foolish man, who fails to see
He is himself an enemy.

One cannot think in bitterness
And happiness and peace possess,
And this is something he should know—

It takes two men to make one foe.

If all his enemies were dead,
He would not come to peace. Instead
Tomorrow he would leave his door
And start at once acquiring more.

WELCOME

The proprietor of the new store in a crossroad village was John Johns. Business was far from good and John stood at the door of his store one morning gazing gloomily at the full but empty street. A little girl who had just turned the corner paused uncertainly before him, with a crumpled dollar bill in one hand.
Instantly John was all smiles.
"Say," began the little girl, "does my mamma owe you a dollar?"
"She does, she does!" exclaimed
John. "And whose little girl are you?" —Exchange

PREVIEW WILL BE GIVEN AT THE COLONIAL

Mystery surrounds the program at the Colonial Theater in Monrovia tonight (Friday) according to Frank R. Alexander, proprietor. All the information that he can give is that it will be a preview from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio in which John Gilbert heads a strong cast. The picture seems to be of unusual importance to the film world, as evidenced by the fact that 36 seats have been reserved for principals in the east and officials of the company. The fifteen reels will permit of only one show, which will begin at 7:30. This will be a fine opportunity, says Mr. Alexander, to see the first showing of a film which will make history and at the same time see many of those who took part in the production. This picture, according to Mr. Alexander, will not be cut from the present length and will in future be exhibited in what the trade calls "road shows," the owners leasing the theaters where it is shown and

OLD SETTLERS PICNIC GUESTS IN SEPTEMBER

Robert E. Steinberger reports excellent progress on the plans of the Chamber of Commerce picnic to be held in the Community Park on September 10. The picnic will be in honor of the native sons and daughters and the old settlers of Sierra Madre. Everyone is invited and urged to attend. "Bring your dinner, a cup and a spoon; the Chamber of Commerce will provide coffee and lemonade," Mr. Steinberger says. A unique program is being planned by the entertainment committee. It has been decided that an old settler is one who has lived in Sierra Madre for 20 years or more. But it makes no difference whether an old settler or a newcomer, everyone will be most heartily welcome at the picnic. The date is Thursday, Sept. 10, at 3 p.m. surrounding it with an appropriate prologue, music and electrical effects.

Mrs. Andrews has also returned home after enjoying outings at Seal Beach and Avalon.

WATER SAVING IS URGED ALL OVER COUNTY

The recent action of the board of directors of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau in urging immediate progress in the water conservation program is strongly backed by Mr. W. A. Johnstone, president of the bureau. On behalf of the agricultural interests of the county, he is urging progress on the San Gabriel canyon dam project as outlined by the office of J. W. Reagan, county flood control engineer, and in addition, the construction of a system sufficiently large to conserve water for agricultural purposes, together with provision for flood control.

In conjunction with the Farm Bureau committee on forest conservation, headed by H. M. Bissell, and Engineer Reagan, the matter of water conservation has occupied a major position in the energies of all the leaders among the county's agricultural interests.

"This is no time for bickering on minor details concerning the water conservation program," says Mr. Johnstone in a recent interview. "The welfare of the county's greatest industry demands decisive, intelligent and united action on the part of all interests."

CROCKEYJOY ADVENTURES

By BETTY BROWNE

(Copyright.)

Ruth Meets Snappy-Dragon

IT HAD been the most wonderful birthday party. Every one of Ruth's friends had come, and they had brought the nicest presents. An ivory fan; a toy with jeweled eyes; a slender silver needle case, and many other things, all her very own, were spread out upon the library table. It made Ruth's heart feel warm and happy to look at them.

But she was very, very tired and her new dancing pumps hurt her feet. She sat down in a big rocker; slipped her feet out of the pumps; then leaned back with a happy little sigh of contentment.

On the walls about her were books. Some were bound in red covers, some black, some green. Above her head was an open space in one row where a book was missing. Ruth looked up. Standing right on the edge of the bookshelf in this open space was her friend, the kindly old Crockeyjoy. Under each arm he carried a big book.

"Come on," he called to Ruth. And she went. In no longer time than it takes to draw three full breaths they were in Crockeyjoy Town, and in one breath more they were in the Crockeyjoy library.

It was a big place. In fact, it was the biggest, tallest room Ruth had ever beheld. It reached up to the sky; and east, and west, and north, and south as far as ever she could see.

Some of the books in front of Ruth were the same as those in her library at home, only they were more than a thousand times as big. The backs of these books, as they stood on the shelves, were all made with hinges at the sides and with locks. They looked just like big doors.

"Which book shall I open for you?" asked the kindly old Crockeyjoy. "You can see into any one you choose. But, let me tell you that you really can't go much by how the backs look. The bright shiny ones often are not really good inside. It's safest to pick one that's quite well worn."

Not far from where Ruth stood was a dingy, tattered-looking book, which was so old that Ruth could not even make out the name of it. "I'll see if the Crockeyjoy is right," she whispered to herself. Then she pointed to the book.

The Crockeyjoy waved his arm and up came a talking cat with eyes which shone like jewels, and at his side was a bunch of keys which jingled and jangled as he strode along. He handed a key to the Crockeyjoy who opened the book. Then Ruth and the Crockeyjoy stepped inside.

Ruth grabbed the Crockeyjoy's arm and held fast to him. She was frightened. It was a new world that she saw. Men in armor on dapple-gray steeds went galloping thunderously across the rocky plain. Fairies and gnomes danced upon the mountaintops. Wolves howled in the great, black forest, where a dwarf was chopping wood. Then, from around the corner of a big hill, a great, green dragon with snow-white teeth, blood-red nostrils and glittering scales on his back, came crawling. Ruth was so scared that she couldn't move at all. On came the dragon. Closer—closer.

"Don't fear him," said the Crockeyjoy to her, as he felt that she was trembling. "He's a good enough fellow, after all, and never harms anyone except the people in books. We'll leave the book before he can get us."

They turned. The door opened. Ruth could feel the dragon's hot breath and hear his teeth snap together as they stepped out.

And here she was, back in the library at home. It wasn't the Crockeyjoy at all who had hold of her hand. It was her big brother, Bob.

"Oh, Ruth, here is a new book of fairy stories for you. I hope you like them," he said. Ruth felt sure she would, because now she understood what fairy stories really meant.

Old Political Expression

The origin of the phrase "mending his fences" as applied to politics dates back to the year 1880 when John Sherman, who was known as an aspirant for Presidential honors, withdrew from Washington to the seclusion of his farm in Ohio. It was generally believed that in his retirement he was maturing plans and organizing movements to capture the nomination. One day, while in a field with his brother-in-law, Colonel Moulton, engaged in replacing some of the rails in one of his fences, a reporter came upon the scene and sought to learn from Colonel Moulton what Sherman was doing in the realm of politics. Colonel Moulton avoided a direct answer by pointing to Mr. Sherman and exclaiming, "Why, can't you see for yourself; he's mending his fences."

Generator Built for Muscle Shoals

One of the giant generators built for the Muscle Shoals plant. The War department is putting in the equipment in the power house, which will soon be ready to deliver power at the switchboard for whatever purpose congress may decide. This generator is of 30,000 horse power, and forms but a small part of the complete equipment that will total 600,000 horse power.
